

Understanding the Flowering Plants

A practical guide for botanical illustrators by Anne L. D. Bebbington

Those of you who are familiar with the SAPS books, Plants for Primary Pupils [1] may well recognise the name of the author of this book. Anne Bebbington's artistic skills were behind the many illustrations in the Plants for Primary Pupils series and it is those skills which are in evidence in this new publication.

The book was developed from workshops run with the aim of helping botanical artists gain a better understanding of (the science of) flowering plants. The book therefore contains a wealth of information about flowering plants and includes Anne's illustration and beautiful photographs contributed by her husband John as well as guidance for botanical illustration.

For those with an interest in flowering plants the book provides an informative and very beautiful source of material
